Corner House Ending Successful Year in Drug Rehabilitation

"Anybody can come in — anybody. With a drug problem, or no drug problem at all."

Nancy White, the calm, sure-eyed professional social worker who runs Corner House, saw 33 new people in the month of May. She accepted 20 of them into the Corner House fold, saw the others just once or for a brief time.

She and Corner House are celebrating their first anniversary this summer. The year of quiet success helping young people who have drug-related problems, is being underscored by Corner House participation in Mercer County's drug rehabilitation program, scheduled to start in late summer or early fall.

The north half of the comfortable old double house on the corner of Witherspoon and Henry is being made ready for the newcomers, while clients come and go as before in the light, airy southern half of the house.

During this first year, Corner House has been handling clients on an out-patient basis, with appointments once or twice a week for individual or group counselling.

This system will continue. Under the new program, young people assigned by the courts to Corner House will spend all day there, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., six days a week. They will have counselling, of course, plus work assignments to help teach the acceptance of responsibility . . . care of the house itself (including re-painting) . . . tutoring in school subjects . . . recreation.

"These are kids who need a tighter, more structured way of doing things than our other clients," explains Mrs. White, "but just because they've been sent here by the county doesn't mean we're getting a lot of older heroin addicts from Trenton, to mix with our 15-year-olds. Not at all!"

"Mostly," she continues, "we'll be getting the same kind of clients we've been getting this past year and that means every degree of drug involvement — although if they're addictive to heroin, they need referral to a residential treatment center, or referral for methadone de-toxification or maintenance."

Who comes to Corner House?

"Kids who've used only grass, but a lot of it, or amphetemines — "uppers" that may have been prescribed by a doctor for dieting or for a little pepping-up and the client used too much. Dabblers, pill-poppers without knowing it."

"Or kids not currently using drugs, but who feel Corner House will help. Maybe they're searching for some direction, maybe they have trouble relating to their parents — or to ANY authority — maybe they're disruptive in school."

No age limit at Corner House, although most clients are between 14 and 27. About half are from Princeton, the rest are scattered around the area.

Well over one-third, maybe even one-half, walk through the Corner House door on their own, without a

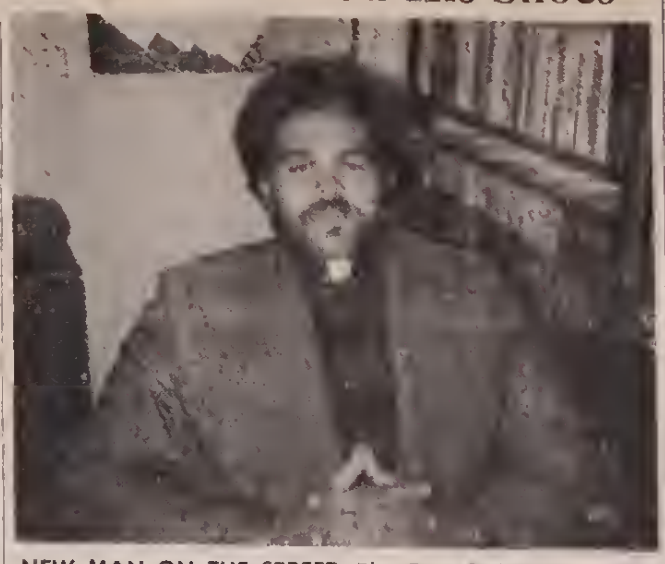
Bill Kight's Successor Tries on His Shoes



NEW MAN ON THE STREET: The Rev. R. Keenon Orro, a third-year student of Princeton Theological Seminary and an ordained minister in the African Methodist Episcopal Church, has assumed full-time responsibilities as Princeton's Street minister. His first order of business: raising funds.

Less than three months after the sudden decision of the Rev. William Kight to leave the post, Princeton's street ministry was back in business, almost — but not quite — as usual.

The Princeton Presbyterian Commission, a cooperative board representing the two Presbyterian churches in town, earlier this month named the Rev. R. Keenan Orro to fill the position of street minister.

In his first month on the job, Mr. Orro has found all the same daily challenges that awaited his predecessor. Or, as was the case with Mr. Kight, if he hasn't found them, they have found him.

"We still have kids on drugs. We still have kids sleeping on doorsteps," said Mr. Orro. "And we still have kids in jail because we can't get money for bail."

Mr. Orro's schedule last week looked like a page ripped out of Mr. Kight's calendar. On Wednesday he accompanied three youngsters to court in Trenton. They were charged with trespassing in an apartment house on Witherspoon Street.

One Big Difference. Jobless and with no place to call home except the apartment house, the young men turned to Mr. Orro. By the weekend he had landed one a job at McGraw Hill.

He was trying to place the other two on the staff of the Carrier Clinic, where he had worked before taking the street minister's job. He also had arranged at least temporary housing for the trio.

But Mr. Orro's first month of operation differed in one important respect from Mr. Kight's ministry: financial support. With the absence of Mr. Kight, funds for the street minister have dried up like a desert shower.

The Presbyterian Commission continues to provide the same modest salary that it did Mr. Kight. Plus it furnishes office space and a telephone in the Chambers Street building of Nassau Presbyterian Church.

Finding Contacts. An important additional source of revenue, however, was the money generated by Mr. Kight's speaking fees and by donations made to the street ministry.

"Bill Kight was a magnetic person who drew a lot of support for his cause," said Mr. Orro. "Some donators have dropped off since Bill left. They equated the street ministry with Bill Kight."

In his first weeks on the job, Mr. Orro has spent much of his time trying to build the kinds of contacts, with young people and with adults, that Mr. Kight had after over seven years in Princeton.

"Bill can't give me those contacts. He's gone," said the 25-year-old street minister. "Even if he could, I might not have the same relationship with his contacts that he did."

Big Footsteps. In other words, Mr. Orro already has recognized just how difficult it is to follow in the path of Mr. Kight, Princeton's first street minister, for whom the job was hand-tailored three years ago as an outgrowth of the youth work he had done as a student at the Seminary.

"It will be hard work," said Mr. Orro, "But I've always been used to hard work."

Born and raised in Chicago, Mr. Orro graduated in 1970 from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, where he majored in physical education and sociology, and was a varsity letterman in football and wrestling. He was a 220-pound linebacker in the fall, and then wrestled at 160 pounds in the winter — a sure measure of hard work. (Now he's closer to 220.)

Following graduation he taught physical education and health science at a University of Chicago laboratory school for emotionally disturbed and handicapped children.

Gang Troubles. His youth work began then. The Black Stone Rangers, a powerful gang on the south side of Chicago, were harassing the white children attending the lab school.

"The Rangers had a point," said Mr. Orro. "There were no black kids in the school. So we reached a compromise: The Rangers would make sure our kids got to school safely and we would try to get black children enrolled."

The next year he began his studies at the Princeton Seminary. In order to support himself, he took a fulltime job as a therapeutic recreation leader at the Carrier Clinic in Belle Mead.

This Is Princeton

His immediate superiors, Ken Phillips and Peter Steele, a Princeton resident, enabled him to work his schedule around his academic obligations. That practice will continue for the coming year, as Mr. Orro has scheduled all his classes on Monday, his official day off as street minister.

Social Work. In addition to working at the clinic, Mr. Orro did field work at Brown's Mill in South Jersey with another A.M.E. minister and fellow Seminarian.

He studied the precepts of the A.M.E. church and was ordained a minister. He also met his wife, Delores, while working in Brown's Mill. They now live outside Cranbury.

Mr. Orro's immediate task in the street minister's position is to raise funds. "It will be tough in the summer," he said. "The college kids that we normally count on to help aren't here. But we'll have some fund-raising activity. The reason I push so hard for money is because I know it's out there in this community."

Long-range goals include formation of a bail bond fund, and, possibly, the acquisition of the lease to the building housing the Institute of Applied Psychotherapy, which is scheduled to run out of funding at the end of August.

Halfway House. Mr. Orro would like to turn the facility at 291 Witherspoon Street into a halfway house. "What good does it do to help a kid or give him money if he just goes back to the same environment?" he asked. "We need a place where they can eat and sleep while we are ministering to them."

The rent is about $400 a month. Mr. Orro thinks he could carry the project off if he could raise one or two years rent money. Not an easy "if."

Mr. Orro's sense of ministering closely resembles Mr. Kight's "Religion is good," the new street minister said, "when it is used in conjunction with common sense."

"You cannot walk into a poverty stricken situation and start talking about Jesus Christ. But if you go in first with help, with food and money, then maybe they will see the benefits of being associated with Jesus Christ."

Lack of Direction. "Many of the kids in trouble just see no attainable goals. The poor black and poor white kids see their parents working hard and not going anywhere. The rich kids often carry a heavy guilt for having parents with so much money who don't do anything to help," he said.

"That's why you see them on Nassau Street. They are all trying to search for something that will satisfy their lives."

Mr. Orro is likely to concentrate his efforts more than his predecessor. "Bill was known as a troubleshooter. He'd get calls for help throughout the state."

The new street minister expects to be more community-oriented. "My goal is to develop the pride of the young people in Princeton. I'll help others too, but my focal point will be Princeton," he said.

Like It Is. "The one pitfall of this job is spreading yourself too thin," he said. "I'm different from Bill and I don't expect to do all the same things he did."

Where Mr. Kight often related to youngsters as kind of father-friend, Mr. Orro is likely to be more a big brother. Where Mr. Kight often used his interest in automobiles to spark a relationship with a young person, Mr. Orro might rely on his interest in athletics.

One element of style will remain unchanged, according to Mr. Orro. "Bill always told it like it was no matter what the consequences. That's what I liked about him and that's how I hope to be."

Corner House

push from parent, teacher, doctor.

"We hired our staff with the idea of appealing to kids," Mrs. White says, "and one of the e is Becky Pillsbury. Kids come here because they've heard from their friends how great Becky is. She is caring, but firm. She doesn't let anybody con her into anything, and she CARES if the kids accomplish a goal."

It is also said around town that kids go voluntarily to Corner House because it's not "establishment" but Mrs. White doesn't comment on this.

"And then, some people say, no, they don't have a drug problem. But they DO have other problems, so they come to Corner House. We never see the drug problem by itself; for instance, a boy we saw had never resolved his feelings about the death of a parent. He used pills and drank alcohol to excess and he was in real trouble physically. He knew his feelings about the death were the paramount ones."

Ex heroin addicts are another group of Corner House clients. Maybe they were in trouble with the law once, but are doing fine now, and simply want the continuing support of a group. These people come in on their own, Mrs. White reports.

Safety Zone. Sometimes addicts actually de-toxify themselves before going to Corner House. One was on black-market methadone.

Becky Pillsbury herself says she believes an ex-addict isn't in a "safety zone" until he's been drug free for about two years and can perform in a job.

She likes to talk about one ex addict client she's had for the whole year of Corner House's existence. He came for daily, individual therapy at first. Then went to group therapy three times a week, then to telephone contact, then to a full time job, then . . .

"He's now in our training program for volunteers."

Becky is a rangy, good looking girl with long brown hair, a young woman whose youth is surprising in view of her years of experience in this field, and her profound knowledge of the ways different kinds of therapy can be used for different kinds of people.

Her colleagues on Corner House's staff are Jim Colman, a psychiatric social worker; Dr. Shirley Van Ferney, child psychiatrist; Jim Lyles, social worker; Brian Childs, a therapist who works part time for Corner House and part time in the chaplain's office at the Princeton Medical Center; Janet Wright, an M.A. in psychology, and Mrs. White. After interview, a client is assigned to whichever professional seems best suited to his needs.

"Situation and problem-solving is my particular bag," Becky Pillsbury explains.

One of the methods she likes best is "brief therapy" in which, as she puts it, "you come out laughing."

Disrupt the System. "When people get stuck in a problem, they are simply using the same old ways, over and over. Disrupt the system, change it, and the system itself automatically changes."

"Someone tells me he can't sleep at night. I tell him he CANNOT — is not allowed to — go to sleep until 4 a.m. for two nights. The point is to let him find out he can have control. It feels worse not to have the control, than not to get the sleep."

"Transactional analysis," popularized in the book, "Games People Play," is therapy in which Becky Pillsbury has had long training. In T.A., a human being is characterized as "child," "parent" or "adult" depending on the way he responds to a situation.

In an argument between mother and child at home, for example, the communication problem can often be solved if the participants switch to the computer-like characteristics labeled "adult."

"Kids respond to the intellectual qualities of T.A.," Becky has found. With it, she often uses role-playing, with the kids acting out a part, using their feelings. The result can be that the client knows intellectually what the probem is and may understand better how to cope with it.

"Confrontation" often works with ex addicts.

Peer Pressure. "They've been fooling themselves and others, but they don't get away with anything in this group. It's a peer pressure group. I don't do any leading — it's them, helping themselves."

"Addicts are often very, very smart," she has observed, "they have to be, to lead that kind of life. I don't demean them by telling them they've been stupid. I say there is another way to use their cleverness than trying to stay alive in the streets."

For younger clients and their parents, Becky runs basic information groups: what are the effects of drugs? what are the agencies, like Planned Parenthood or Family Service, where you can get help in making big decisions?

Corner House does individual counselling, too and some people never go into a group. If the kid doesn't want it, it's not required.

Referral. "We make very individualized decisions on what a client needs, and this is quite an unusual policy for an agency," Becky says.

Often, the decision with a new Corner House visitor is referral to another agency. Flight Two and the Princeton Youth Center have what Becky calls "very supportive groups" within their organizations.

There is tremendous variety in Corner House clients. They are male, female, every race, every economic background from wealth to poverty.

Variety and versatility characterize the staff, as well, and its members speak with warm praise of Mrs. White and the success she has had in choosing professionals who have different kinds of skills.

When three newcomers arrive to work on the Mercer County day program, there will be an even broader range of expertise to support the young who need Corner House.

If the organization has any philosophy, it might be Becky's comment that, with the existence of Corner House, "kids know there are people for caring, warmth and understanding — not for opinion or judgment."

Public Housing Stalled (Again) as Option Expires on 10.5 Acres Chosen for Project

Princeton's proposed public housing project — 100 units for senior citizens and low-income families — has encountered one more hurdle in its path.

Developer Benedict Yedlin has lost his option to purchase the larger of two parcels of land at Mount Lucas Road and Ewing Street in Princeton Township. For the past two years, he has held options to purchase 10.5 acres from the present owners.

The last option, to buy the land for about $96,000 expired June 30. Mr. Yedlin, who has been working for months to renegotiate it, thus far has been unable to reach a satisfactory purchase price with the current owners, who claim that several other interested buyers are willing to pay "substantially more" than Mr. Yedlin's best offer.

The present owners are three brothers and a sister: Dominick Ferrara of Detroit, formerly a Princeton High School teacher; Basil Ferrara, the Princeton postmaster; William Ferrara and Mrs. Rita Daniels, both of Princeton. Basil Ferrara said this week that his brother Dominick was handling the sale, and that he had met personally with two potential buyers.

Mr. Yedlin, who successfully renegotiated the option with the Ferraras one year ago, was also still actively negotiating.

Program Freeze. The public housing plan calls for Mr. Yedlin to buy the land and build the units, which then would be bought back by the Princeton Housing Authority with funds supplied by the Federal government under the HUD "turnkey" program.

If the site were changed, the proposal would have to be reinitiated. Mrs. E. Karin Slaby, executive director of the Housing Authority, was not confident that such a program could begin anew under the Nixon Administration budget which has frozen housing programs of this sort.

A HUD official in Camden was quoted this week as saying that the Federal funds for the Princeton housing were "reserved," and if this plan fell through, the money would still be available for another project at another Princeton site.

In either case, Princeton's public housing program would be seriously delayed, if not scuttled.

Environmental Worry. The project has already been attacked by opponents, mostly neighbors of the Ferrara site, who have taken the case to court in an effort to block the project.

HUD, meanwhile, has not made up its mind whether or not to subject the proposal to a detailed environmental impact review. The HUD office in Camden said it saw no need for such a review. But the Washington, D.C., office, which has received numerous complaints about the project from Princeton residents, has not reached a decision.

How high Mr. Yedlin would be willing to go for the Ferrara property was uncertain. Mrs. Slaby said that several recent appraisals of the land done for purposes of HUD reviews showed the value at close to the $96,000 figure agreed to a year ago.

Some public housing advocates were wondering among themselves whether the "substantially higher" offers were the result of the work being done by opponents of the project to keep Mr. Yedlin from buying the land.

University to Close Six Roads for 24 Hours

Effective at 8 a.m. Wednesday, August 1, and continuing for a 24-hour period until 8 a.m. Thursday, August 2, all access roads leading to that part of the main Princeton University campus bounded by Harrison Street, Prospect Avenue, FitzRandolph Road and Lake Carnegie will be closed to all through traffic.

During this period the following entrances to the campus will be closed:

1. FitzRandolph Road at Prospect.
2. Broadmead at Prospect.
3. Western Way at Harrison Street.
4. Hartley Ave. at Harrison Street.
5. Faculty Road west of FitzRandolph.
6. Western Way west of FitzRandolph

This 24-hour closing is done in accordance with New Jersey statutes bearing upon the ownership of privately-maintained arteries. If left open throughout the year, they would in time become public arteries.

LANDLORD FOUND GUILTY

Failed to Make Repairs. Paul E. Harvey, 36, of Lambertville, who owns eight rental units on Shirley Court in Princeton Borough, last week became the first landlord fined under the Borough's new housing inspection ordinance, enacted March 13.

Mr. Harvey was fined $75 and $30 in court costs, and received a warning from Judge Philip Carchman, for failing to make repairs on rental units at numbers 4, 8 and 10 Shirley Court after lawful notificatinn.

Health Officer David T. Blake inspected the units and gave Mr. Harvey two weeks to make the necessary repairs nr face a court hearing.

"He ignored my notice," Mr. Blake said. Mr. Harvey was summoned to court July 18, at which time he was found guilty on three counts of Article 45, Chapters A and B of the Princeton Housing Standards.

Among the violations cited by Mr. Blake were faulty plumbing and electrical outlets, hazardous wiring, loose paint, windows without screens, windows that would not open, and loose porch railings.

Violations were found at four other Shirley Court units owned by Mr. Harvey but he requested and was granted an extension of time for repairs.

The tenants at the three Shirley Court units in violation of the standards were listed as Stella Tillman, No. 4; Mrs. Winifred Williams, No. 8; Mrs. Essie Owens, No. 10.

erspoon Street, was fined $35 for creating a disturbance while under the influence of alcohol. The incident took place at P.J.'s Pancake House on Nassau Street.

In Township court last week, Judge Carchman fined Terry C. Perkins, 20, The Great Road, $75 and revoked his license for six months for driving while impaired by alcohol.

Paying $15 fines were Guy M. Mendelson, 17, 32 Gallup Road, following too closely, and Arthur J. Sampson, 39, of Cranbury, failure to keep right.

ZONING BOARD NEXT STOP For Proposed Restaurant. Next stop for Robert Poitras, 860 Herrontown Road, who wants to convert the Princeton Recreation Center bowling alley, 138 Nassau Street, into restaurant-retail use is the Borough Zoning Board.

In Borough Hall Thursday evening, Mr. Poitras and his attorney, Gordon Strauss, will ask for a favorable recommendation from the board to Mayor and Council for a use variance and a complete waiver of all street parking requirements.

The applicant needs a use variance because approximately half of the building is located in a residential-office zone where a restaurant is a nonconforming use. The other half is located in the central business district.

Mr. Poitras plans to convert the first floor into five or six small shops or offices. Upstairs would be a cocktail lounge and steak-type restaurant. There are 41 existing seats; Mr. Poitras plans to add 191 for a total of 232. Under zoning requirements, one parking spaces needed for every five seats. There is no room on the lot to provide parking.

Mr. Poitras has obtained favorable site plan review from the Regional Planning Board which is required by the Zoning Board. However, the Planning Board did not render a favorable use report to the application, citing the lack of parking space and pointing out that the rear of the building protrudes into the Lincoln Court area which is presently being considered for possible redevelopment.

Although the Zoning Board is not bound in any way to the negative use finding of the Planning Board and could grant a waiver of parking and make a favorable recommendation to Mayor and Council, a spokesman for the board said that "there is no question it will have some effect."

In a second application, Arthur P. Morgan, 18 Hibben Road, wishes to subdivide his lot so that another home can be built in the rear.

The proposed new lot meets depth and area requirements but is narrower than the 125-foot width required in an R-1 zone. After a 200-foot access strip measuring 50 feet wide, the proposed lot spreads out to average 95 feet in width for another 130 feet. Attorney A.C. Reeves Hicks will represent Mr. Morgan.

TWO ARE ARESTED For Shoplifting at Clayton's. Two Trenton residents were arrested for allegedly shoplifting three scarves Tuesday at Clayton's on Palmer Square.

Acting on a possible description supplied by the store, Borough police arrested Karen D. Patterson and William Brown, 23. Brown was charged with larceny; Miss Patterson with possession of stolen property. Police said that she had the scarves in her possession when arrested.

Both were later released after being issued complaint summonses calling for their appearance in Borough court.

There were three other shoplifings in the Borough, police reported.

Iris Clothes, 12 Spring Street, lost three dresses with a combined value of $97 and a $30 satin suit. The same day—Saturday—Joseph Amari, 356 Nassau Street, lost a $90 dress and $10 skirt to shoplifters. A pair of $5.99 pants were stolen last week from the Warehouse, 360 Nassau.

More in the Township. The favorite place for shoplifters in the Township, the Princeton Shopping Center was the target again of juveniles.

Juvenile Officer Anthony Pinelli reported the arrest last week of a 16-year old Hightstown girl for allegedly taking a $12 bodyshirt from Bamberger's.

A day earlier, three girls from Kendall Park, 14, 15 and 16, were arrested after allegedly taking small articles from the Acme Store, Thrift Drugs and Bamberger's. Their total value was $21.79.

All four girls were later released to their parents, pending action by a juvenile court.

CHOIR COLEGE PLAGUED By Dormitory Thefts. The Westminster Choir College has been the site of a number of thefts, police report.

Dorene Schenck reported the theft Monday of $20 from her dresser and Joanne Schofield told police that she lost $80 from a jewelry box on top of her dresser. Both are residents of the East Hall dormitory. Police report no signs of forced entry.

Kenneth Sass of West Hall earlier reported that his wallet containing $20, a $30 watch and a yellow gold signet ring had been taken from his desk. Thieves also entered the unlocked room of Agnes McGeehan, North Hall, and removed a wallet containing $27 from her purse. Miss McGeehan told police that a roommate lost a pair of nylon stockings.

Purse Stolen. Susan DiBlassio of Levittown, Pa., told police that someone had stolen her beaded purse containing $10 from under the seat of her car Monday while it was parked between 5:40 and 8 p.m. in the Marquand Park lot. She told them the car was locked but police report there was no evidence of forced entry.

A wallet containing $20 was stolen from a desk in the Arts and Crafts room at the YMCA Friday between noon and 3 p.m. It was found later the same day on Clay Street.

Police identified the owner as Jonette A. Watkins, an instructor at the Y.

Two Homes Entered. Mrs. Carmena Toto, 25 Greenview Avenue, told police that some-

July Jingle

Summer refrain,
Locust Song;
Humming lightly
All day long.

July sounds are punctuated frequently by the current crop of locusts—not the 17-year variety, but nonetheless a symbol that summer is in its mid-season.

Other symbols are with us, too: mounting heat and humidity are returning to the scene, after three unusually pleasant days as the week began. Fully aware that his forecast will be as unpopular as always when he talks of a rainy weekend, the Man is calling for showers to begin Friday and continue into Saturday. Sunday, he adds hopefully, should bring the sun back.

one had ransacked three bedrooms on the first floor of her home Monday morning during the hour she was gone from 9:30 to 10:30.

Lt. Theodore Lewis said that the dressers had been checked but it is not known if anything was taken. The door to the house was unlocked, he said.

Edgar Warren, 70 Wiggins Street, told police that someone had entered his home while he and his wife were in the back yard for about an hour. Taken from three purses was a total of $7. Again, the front door was unlocked.

WINDOWS ARE BROKEN

At Riverside School. Two 3x5-foot windows at Riverside School valued at $60 were broken during the weekend by vandals' stones. Custodian Albert Carter reported the malicious damage to police on Monday.

Police said one window was located in a northeast classroom, the other in an east hall. Ptl. David Cromwell investigated.

6.5% INCREASE DUE

For Regional Schools Personnel. An average salary increase of 6.5 percent and higher medical benefits await Princeton Regional School employees when the new year begins in September.

The new scale will give teachers with a bachelor's degree and no teaching experience an annual salary of $8,600 — up from the current $8,350. A bachelor's degree and 13 years' experience will be worth $14,850, compared to $14,100 in the current contract.

Those with a master's degree, beginning their teaching careers, will receive $9,400 and increase to $16,200 after 13 years. A master's and 32 credits toward a doctorate will earn a starting salary of $10,200 and rise after 13 years to $17,400. Current starting figures are, respectively, $9,150 and $9,850. Doctorates will bring $800 more than the 32-credit guidelines.

George Petrillo, newly-appointed high school principal, will receive a salary in his first year of $26,000. Virginia Euell, named last month to head the middle school, will be paid $24,000. Salaries for School Superintendent Philip E. McPherson and others who are not members of one of the five bargaining associations in the school system will be set at a meeting in August for which the date has not yet been announced.

Office personnel will receive starting salaries ranging from $5,135 for a clerk-typist to $7,890 for an executive secretary. Custodians will start at $5,600; custodian supervisors, $7,200; boilermen, $6,100; supervisor boilermen, $7,500; maintenance department helpers, $8,000; painters, $9,800; and carpenters, $9,900.

Fringe benefits of a medical nature will be worth one half of one percent more, and will cost the school system an average of $40 per employee. Included in the prescription program will be the cost of birth control pills.

Not all of the bargaining associations have as yet ratified their contracts, among them the teachers'. Favorable action is expected shortly.

CONDOMINIUMS PLANNED

For Lawrence Township. In a lengthy meeting Thursday night, the Lawrence Township Planning Board heard a proposal to build luxury condominium units selling for $125,000 apiece on a site at Fackler Road and Route 206.

The proposal, which was greeted favorably by the Planning Board, was presented by William Baggitt, attorney for Lewis C. Bowers and Sons, Inc., building contractors, of 341 Nassau Street. The Bowers firm owns the 52-acre tract.

The units would be purchased individually, Mr. Baggitt said, but would be constructed on collectively owned property, thus allowing more open space and coordinated landscape architecture.

Design of the development would be aimed at middle-aged couples with grown children, the attorney said. Access would be provided from Fackler Road only, and the project would be fenced in for security and would include a tennis court and swimming pool.

Board attorney Joseph Stonaker indicated that the plan conforms to zoning requirements. The planners and Mr. Baggitt will meet again next month to discuss the availability of sewers for the units.

Mall Variance Tabled. The Planning Board was scheduled to consider a zoning change to allow construction of a regional shopping center between Route 1, Franklin Corner Road, Princeton Pike and Interstate 295. The meeting was adjourned, however, without discussion of the change.

AKRON TO BOSTON: Fifty-six years ago a truck very much like this 1915 Packard drove from Akron to Boston, passing through Princeton, to prove the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's contention that its pneumatic tires for trucks were practical for long-distance hauls. On Tuesday the Packard pulled up in front of the Battle Monument at Borough Hall as it retraced the original path in commemoration of Goodyear's anniversary. In 1917 the "Wingfoot Express," as the truck line was called, followed the old Lincoln Highway and then the Boston Post Road to its destination. Goodyear officials presented Mayor Robert W. Cawley with a plaque, outfitted with an antique truck horn, for Princeton's hospitality then and now.

Lawrence Mall Associates, builder of the proposed mall, is seeking the zoning change.

Lawrence Township Council considered the matter on June 11, and directed the Planning Board to study the zoning in the area. A final decision on the change now has been postponed until a special meeting at a later date.

GROTTO CLOSES DOORS

To Correct Health Violations. The large sign on the big picture window in front said "Closed For Vacation." But the small pink notice on the little window in the entrance way told a different story. The Grotto, at 18 Witherspoon Street, had received an unsatisfactory rating July 16 from the State Department of Health and was forced to shut its doors.

By the middle of this week, the restaurant was still closed. A reinspection of the facility last Friday turned up the same violation that had caused the closing in the first place — an infestation of cockroaches in the kitchen.

Princeton Health Officer David T. Blake and Sanitary Inspector Andrew R. O'Hara Jr. were scheduled to visit the Grotto again Wednesday. If the clean-up program appeared effective, they would call the state inspector back for another reinspection.

"These inspections are a lot tougher," said Mr. O'Hara of the new state sanitary code passed last December 16. "If we discover certain violations, like cockroaches, we have no choice but to close the eating establishment down until the violation is corrected."

The Grotto had been inspected by Mr. O'Hara March 22, and was given a conditionally satisfactory approval, pending the correction of several minor violations. The next day Mr. O'Hara reinspected, and the restaurant was deemed "satisfactory."

Chicken in a Drawer. But on the morning of July 16 Mr. O'Hara received a call from a state inspector in Trenton, who said she wanted to examine the Grotto. The inspection began that afternoon at 1.

Three hours later, the state inspector and Mr. O'Hara had cited the Grotto for numerous violations: bread crumbs in a silverware drawer, food particles and grease marks on glassware, a bad odor of urine in the men's room, a piece of old chicken found among clean linens in a storage cabinet, and olives, pimentos and mayonnaise left overnight at room temperature.

Grotto owner Gabriel M. Pilenza voluntarily destroyed one gallon of mayonnaise, one pint of olives and one pint of pimentos.

But that was not enough to satisfy Mr. O'Hara and the state inspector, who had flushed out a pack of cockroaches from several nooks and crannies in the kitchen.

Return Visit. At that point the pink notice of the "Unsatisfactory" rating went into the small window, and the "Closed For Vacation" sign in the other.

It was hardly a vacation for some of the Grotto staff. "We moved everything we could out of the kitchen and put it out front on the tables," said one Grotto employee. "Then we scrubbed the place from top to bottom."

On Friday, Mr. O'Hara called Trenton and asked another inspector to come over. He then called Mr. Pilenza and alerted him.

"Throw it out," Mr. O'Hara said in response to a question from the Grotto owner. "If you're not sure about it, get rid of it. If you don't pass this one, then we're really in trouble."

More Vacation. An hour later, the state inspector was in the Grotto kitchen. "That guy got down on his back under some cabinets and squirted something in there and out came more cockroaches," said the Grotto employee.

The state inspector also saw the cockroaches, and with their appearance the Grotto began its second week of "vacation."

Mr. O'Hara said that while the new inspection procedure was more rigorous, it might not be applied as readily to all eating establishments.

The reason was the limitation on his own time. Mr.

TOWNSHIP WOMAN RAPED

Lawrenceville Man Jailed. A 20-year-old Township woman last week was forced to drive her car to a side street in Lawrenceville where, she told police, her abductor raped her twice. He was arrested Thursday morning by Det. Joseph Gorski of the Lawrence police.

In Mercer County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail is Joseph Richardson, 28, 42 Gordon Avenue, Lawrenceville. He has been charged by Lawrence police with rape. Borough police have charged him with assault with intent to rape and kidnapping.

The victim, whom police described as "thin and frail," was later examined at Princeton Medical Center. She sustained minor bruises. Self-imposed wounds in the neck by her abductor were described by Det. Timothy Huizing, who conducted the Borough phase of the investigation, as "superficial."

Police gave this account of the incident: The victim was with another young woman sitting in the Peacock Alley bar in the Peacock Inn on Bayard Lane. A man tried to strike up a conversation with her but she ignored him.

Around midnight, police continued, the same man sat next to her at her table, asked her if she wanted to dance and again tried to engage her in conversation. The two women decided to leave, planning to meet at the Annex Grill on Nassau Street. Both had their own cars.

The victim's car was parked on nearby Boudinot Street. Police said she told them she was about halfway to her car when she heard footsteps behind her. The same man at the bar caught her from behind and tried to talk to her, police said.

When the woman refused to have anything to do with him, he became angry and started to curse her. He pulled off her glasses, police said, and slapped her.

He then put her glasses back on, returned her purse that he had grabbed, picked her up and carried her to her car. He forced her to drive to a side street in Lawrenceville.

Next, police said, her abductor took the keys from the ignition and told her to take her clothes off. She told police that he told her he was going to count to three. "If you don't take your clothes off by then, I'll knock your head off."

After forcing her to strip, Borough police continued, he assaulted her twice. After assaulting her, he started to cry. Police say he broke off a stem of his eyeglasses and told his victim to stab him with it. She refused.

Richardson, police went on, started to cry again, telling her to feel scars on his wrist, he said he was going to commit suicide. He then jabbed his throat twice with the eyeglass stem, causing it to bleed slightly. Police reported that they found the stem later on the ground when they visited the assault site.

Then, the police account continues, Richardson proposed that both he and his victim commit suicide. She refused. He told her then that she could put her clothes back on. It was around 2 a.m.

The victim then told police that Richardson told her to drive to the Lawrence police station. He told her where to park. Both walked to the door and pressed a bell but, according to the woman, no one came.

At this point, she told police, her assailant told her his name and where he lived. He said that police knew of him already. Her last sight of him as she drove off, she told police, was of Richardson leaning against the wall of the police station.

She drove to Borough police headquarters and told them her story. She gave police his name. From police photographs, she immediately identified one as the man who had raped her, police said.

Four and a half hours later, at 7 a.m., Richardson was placed under arrest.

SUITCASE SQUABBLE

Police Arrest One. An argument over the ownership of some clothes in a suitcase has led to two charges against a Trenton teenager.

Richard Hall, 18, has been charged with possession of stolen property and possession of a concealed deadly weapon. The latter, a large ceremonial knife in a black leather sheath, was allegedly stolen from William Kight, former Princeton street minister, in New York City, where he is now Director of Youth Services, Riverside Church.

Hall, who was arrested Monday on a warrant, was released Tuesday morning from Borough Jail in $250 bail.

Pfl. David Alston and Pfl. Victor Fasanella first noticed the two youths Sunday evening at 9:15 arguing at Nassau and Witherspoon Streets over the contents of a suit case. One, later identified as Hall, allegedly refused to hand over to the second youth clothing that he later claimed was his. To help settle the argument, the two officers asked the youths to accompany them to police headquarters. Hall refused.

The second youth, identified by police only as Reed Lane, went to police headquarters, where he described the clothes that were his. Opening the suitcase, police found them and handed them over.

Thief Has Green Thumb

Most thieves specialize in taking articles with a quick re-sale value, such as cameras, radios, TV sets, tape decks, clothing and similar articles. There is one on the prowl, however, with an eye for the greener things in life.

Earlier this month, a large fern and brass stand disappeared from the front porch of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Argue, 44 Chestnut Street. Their value was estimated at $60 to $70.

Last week, the Green Thumb struck again. Gone from the porch this time was a five-foot hibiscus plant.

HEIGHT OF DUPLICITY: The most gulled, cheated and cozened arch-villain Malvolio (John Vennema, right) being obused while Sir Andrew Aguecheek looks on "unnoticed" in current Princeton Theotre Co. production of "Twelfth Night."

Capsule Review of Summer Theatre: "Twelfth Night" Is "A Sheer Delight"

"Twelfth Night," as presented by the Princeton heatre Company in the Rider College Fine Arts Center, is a sheer delight. It is a happy blending of theatrical arts: costumes, music, lighting, sublimely simple scenery, inventive direction and acting that catches Shakespeare's merriest mood together fashion an evening of civilized fun.

Theatregoers who missed last week's performances may see the play Thursday through Sunday, July 26-29.

A review, to be honest, must become a long list of credits. One spreading tree, three varishaped monoliths, and a box-like seat moved on and off the stage comprise Lowell Achziger's setting.

Combined with Robert Scheeler's subtly varied lighting, this background properly throws realism to the winds. Marie Miller's gaily imaginative costumes delight the eye, and Larry Eisenoff's music (played by himself as Duke Orsino's musician) commends itself to the ear.

The acting, particularly in the major parts, is excellent. John Vennema, sombrely garbed and fearsomely mustachioed, plays Malvolio with a finely contained sense of comedy.

Larry Strichman's Feste was the subject of a remark overheard in the lobby at intermission: "I never enjoyed a Shakespeare clown before." His wit comes from the mind, cheerfully cynical, and his songs are pleasing, especially the moving "The rain it raineth every day" on which the play ends.

Toby Belch and Andrew Aguecheek, characters frequently made ridiculous by overacting, are nicely handled: Richard Ferrugio emphasizes Toby's love of fun more than his drunkenness, while Mark Capri's infectious gusto makes Andrew's silliness enjoyable. David Grechan as Orsino, Walton Jones as Sebastian, and Robert Thorson as Antonio are more than adequate.

The ladies are delicious. The Viola of Anne Louise Hoffmann is most appealing. Anyone who saw Miss Hoffmann play Rosalind in Theatre Intime's "As You Like It" last fall (another girl disguised as a boy) will appreciate how differently she handles the would-be page Cesario, both amused and chagrined by her dilemma of living Orsino and being loved by Olivia.

Marcia Ellian's Olivia is also a characterization in depth: she is haughtily untouched by Orsino's wooing, helplessly enamored of young Cesario, impatient yet understanding toward her unruly household. The first interview between Olivia and Viola (in disguise) is a gem of high comedy acting.

Alice White is irresistible as Maria, mistress of mischief. She creates so much enjoyment, offstage and on, that it is only fitting that her Maria seems to enjoy her plots as much as anybody.

At the heart of this fine revival stands the director, Daniel F. Berkowitz. He has imbued his cast with the idea of bringing out all the fun that Shakespeare put into the play. He has harmonized setting, costumes and lighting into the beauty of a well-acted play. And he has added touches of amusing business in keeping with the spirit of the comedy. I have never before had so much to laugh at in the famous scene in which Malvolio finds the love letter while four "hidden" plotters watch in glee.

Truly, at Rider College this weekend, "The play's the thing."

LAST CONCERT THURSDAY

In Outdoor Series. The last in the series of three outdoor chamber concerts at Princeton University this summer will present well-known Princeton musicians, the Princeton Chamber Artists, at 8:30 p.m. this Thursday in the North Court of the Graduate College.

Like the two earlier in the summer, Thursday's concluding concert will be open to the public without charge. No formal seating is provided and the audience is advised to bring blankets. Parking will be available adjoining the Graduate College off Springdale Road.

The program will consist of an early 19th century Quartet for Flute and Strings by Frantisek Kramer; Max Reger's Serenade in G Major for Flute, Violin and Viola; the Beethoven String Trio in C Minor and Albert Roussel's Trio for Flute, Viola and Violincello.

Mrs. Barbara Sand, Director of the Summer Chamber Concerts, reminds music-lovers that contributions for the Summer Concerts may be made by check payable to the Trustees of Princeton University and sent to Summer Chamber Concerts, Woolworth Center, Princeton University.

In the event of rain, the concert will be given in PROCTER Hall at the Graduate College.

AYN RAND PLAY SET

For Street Theatre Staging. The Street Theatre's final production of the summer, Ayn Rand's "Night of January 16th," will be presented August 22-26 on the theatre's outdoor portable stage.

The exact time and places of the performances have not yet been determined.

Tryouts for the 16 parts in the three-act play conclude this Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Dorothea House, across from the main YMCA building. Anyone in seventh grade or above is eligible to try out.

The group's second production, three original scripts, is already cast and in rehearsal. The plays will be performed August 1-5 at 8:30 at the following locations: Roosevelt School in East Windsor, August 1; Princeton High School, August 2; Van Ness Park in West Windsor, August 3; Riverside School, August 4; and Palmer Square, August 5.

The three plays include "Penguin Dust," a rewrite of "The Wizard of Oz," written and directed by Deborah Bellow. Elizabeth Rothberg is featured as Dorothy.

Mugging Spoof. Completing the cast are Tim Murphy, Nancy Bartels, Susan Taylor, Eric Hollander, Geoff Becker, John Wible, Greg Davidson, Lesley Peables and Bonna Horovitz. Tim Murphy is directing "42nd Street Aggravation," with Rip Pellaton and Debbie Bellow cast in a light-hearted spoof of being mugged in New York.

The last of the three plays is "The Hospital or a Play in Progress." Director Frank Silverstein's cast includes Ellen Moss, Cordelia Grimm, Anne Fenton, John Keane, Bob Ayling, Pat Higgins and John Wible.

Modern Gothic Horror Story Unfolds at Intime

AT SUMMER INTIME: Meg (Sason Wolf) and Petey (Dennis Michael) discuss local scandals in Summer Intime's production of "The Birthday Porty." The Pinter play has four more productions ot Murray Theatre.

SOMETHING old or new to sell? Try a Town Topics Classified. Call 924-2200 today

"The Birthday Party," Harold Pinter's cozy modern Gothic horror story, is the current offering of Summer Intime at Hamilton Murray Theatre. It is well done, and it should appeal to all except those who don't enjoy Pinteresque excursions into irrational cruelty and the empty maunderings of mediocre people.

For half an act we get to know Meg and Petey — an elderly couple whose living comes from renting beach chairs and letting rooms in an English seaside town — and their boarder, Stanley, a seedy pianist whose existence hovers between sleeping late and boasting of imaginary concert successes. With the entrance of Goldberg and McCann, an anonymous menace is established.

An equally anonymous fear possesses Stanley. Evil is definitely present, but of what nature one can only guess.

Stanley's jittery defiance of the two strangers leads to a scene of horrid fascination — the cold-blooded destruction of a man's intellect by mindless brute tactics. There follows the macabre birthday party itself, a sort of three ring circus with profane love in one corner, stupid Meg lifted to euphoric heights by drink and flattery in another, and poor Stanley watching the proceedings with the helpless look of a bird hypnotized by a snake.

It is largely a tribute to the actors and the effective direction of Nancy Swortzell that the first night audience gave rapt attention and tried to give the cast several curtain calls. Some part of the audience's concentration, it seems to me, lies in their effort to figure out why those things on the stage are happening.

Pinter gives no help. If you must know the reasons behind the events, you will leave the theatre partly unsatisfied. If you accept the events at their face value, you will empathize with some diverse characters and you will enjoy a gripping evening.

Among several fine performances that of Jim Shankman as Stanley stood out. He vividly traced out the successive steps of Stanley's disintegration, and his appearance in the last act — waxen-faced, spotlessly dressed as though fresh from the hands of an undertaker, and unable to utter an intelligent syllable was truly terrifying.

Geoffrey Shlaes's Goldberg was another strong performance. As chief executioner he exuded a menacing confidence, but his lapses into moments of weakness and childhood memories to justify himself made him very human.

Dennis Michael was consistent as Petey, slow-moving, slow-thinking, but clear about right and wrong. He carried his years well.

Susan Alexis Wolf was common enough to make Meg's evening as a Cinderella convincing, but she looked too young. A woman in her sixties,

Welcome Aboard

by BUNNY STEIN

More than 300 years ago, Sir Edward Coke is known to have said, "A man's house is his castle." In England this is still true. An English village is quaint to walk through. Each house seems surrounded and hidden away by its own hedge and garden. However, the English are a very hospitable people and anxious to make visitors feel at home. Also, if home life is not what you are looking for, there are many opportunities for night-clubbing and theater-going in the larger cities. You can have the best of both worlds!

You are sure to take many memories away from any trip you take. Plan your next vacation with the assistance of WELCOME ABOARD TRAVEL CENTER 29 Witherspoon St. . . . as the script calls for, would have brought more pathos to her delusion that she had been "the belle of the ball."

Barre Hunt's vigorous, slutish Lulu, and Mitchell Eil's gentlemanly McCann — a good foil for the overmastering Goldberg — completed the cast. The living-room set by Leonard Taylor, Jr., and Charles G. Stone II, with a glimpse into a laundry-clogged kitchen, was as determinedly lower-class as the people whose lives passed through it.

"The Birthday Party" will play for four more performances, from Thursday through Sunday, July 26 through 29.

THEATRE AT FOX RUN

First Production Planned. Formation of a new theatre group, "Theatre at Fox Run," has been announced by Marshall Hertel, Property Manager of Fox Run Apartments in Plainsboro.

"Theatre at Fox Run" has held improvisational sessions, workshops and has chosen its first production, Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology."

The group's director, Allan Pierce, head of the English Department at Rutgers Prep School, has experience directing and acting in plays in this area, most recently, "House of Blue Leaves". The production date for "Spoon River" has been set for mid-September.

"THE CHASE" FEATURED

In Intime Film Festival. Summer Intime's 1973 film festival continues next week with the showing of four classic films, Monday through Wednesday at 7:30 in McCormick Hall on the Princeton University campus.

On Monday Arthur Penn's "The Chase" will be screened. Robert Redford, in one of his earliest film roles, plays a fugitive from a state prison. Marlon Brando is the sheriff who tracks him down.

Also starring are Jane Fonda, E.G. Marshall and Jocelyn Brando, Marlon's sister.

Tuesday's films are "The Red Balloon," an Academy Award winner, and "Zero for Conduct." In the former a boy makes friends with a balloon, tames it, and the balloon begins to live a life of its own.

"Zero for Conduct," the masterpiece of Jean Vigo, captures the psychology and the world of children.

"The Last Hurrah," directed by John Ford, depicts the final campaign of an old-school politician. It will be shown Wednesday. Spencer Tracy plays the mayor of a small New England town whose defeat and death parallel the passing of a colorful style of politics.

FILM FOR CHILDREN

At Public Library. "The Magic of the Kite" will be shown Monday, August 6, at 3 and 7:30 at the Princeton Public Library.

The 72-minute color film tells the story of a French boy who discovers a magnificent kite that contains a message written in Chinese. He learns that it is from a boy in China who wants to make a friend in a far away land.

A joint production of Tourane Films of France and the Studio of Peking of the People's Republic of China, the film relates the message that children can get along with children anywhere. The film is suggested for people 5 and up. Free tickets are available at the children's desk.

PLAYHOUSE

Godspell. Just a joy. A loud, bouncy, almost frenetic recreation of the Gospel according to St. Matthew with a libretto out of the days of the Passion Play and a musical score that is rock contemporary. The joy of man's faith is marvellously captured. The film jumps and jigs with such abandon that the heart can't stop singing.

The original cast is first rate. They're fresh, they're young. They get a lot of things to do in the film and they do it all with great spirit and fun. The music by Stephen Schwartz is still as loud and charming as that of the off-Broadway version and at least a few of his numbers are on the way to becoming classics.

From the moment John the Baptist appears on the Brooklyn Bridge with his ram's horn calling the few chosen disciples out of dockside hash house, Columbus Circle Ballet class, 7th Avenue garment center and mid-town taxi cab alike, it is obvious this film is anything but conventional. The disciples and their clown-like leader wander all over New York, unfolding the parables and proverbs of the New Testament from the electronic Accutron sign in Times Square to the top of the new World Trade Center.

Godspell is extremely inventive almost to a fault and the ending falls down a bit when the high spirits finally must give way to drama, but it nonetheless remains fresh and alive. Anyone who loved the play will enjoy the film version (G)

MONTGOMERY

Bullitt and Bonnie & Clyde. These two films, usually linked together, keep resurfacing The reason for their continuing popularity is simple enough: they are two of the most exciting pictures of their type ever made

Bullitt is vintage Steve McQueen at his best, a hard nosed cop taking on the hoods and corrupt politicians and winning. It contains a chase between McQueen in a Mustang and a gangsters' Charger over the streets and hills of San Francisco that is stunning in execution and breathaking. I is, despite hose who prefer the chase scene in the French Connection, the best car chase ever put on film. Jacqueline Bisset is McQueen's girl friend.

Bonnie & Clyde seems destined to become a classic. It is, of course, a recreation of the adventures of a pair of real-life famous killers. Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow, who robbed and killed some 18 persons in their brief career in the '30s. Some may may view it as a whitewash of two vicious criminals, because in Arthur Penn's film, the two are portrayed as a couple of misguided plain folk who took to crime out of a sense of adventure and because of the Great Depression.

Bu whatever one thinks of he picure's moral viewpoint, there's no denying it is exciting and well acted. Heading the list are Warren Beatty as Barrow and Faye Dunaway as Bonnie. Gene Hackman, Michael J Pollard and Estelle Parsons are splendid in supporting roles.

PRINCE

Jesus Christ Superstar. A hip, contemporary rock opera that brings the reverent, Biblical Jesus Christ down from the stained glass windows.

Fundamentalists may be jarred at seeing crowds wearing long hair, blue jeans and T shirts, but the film has been embraced by the young people as one that speaks in their idiom. The rock opera itself is a mixture of musical styles, pop culture and religion.

Tom Neeley, who had played Jesus in Broadway and Los Angeles stage productions, stars in the title role. Carl Anderson is Judas; Yvonne Elliman, Mary Magdalene; and Barry Dennen, Pontius Pilate.

GARDEN

Love and Pain. A charmer with Maggie Smith (she's outstanding) and Timothy Bottoms as two of life's stepped-upon who slowly come together during a guided tour of Spain. The last 20 minutes mess things up considerably but the film, directed by Alan J. Pakula — his third since "The Sterile Cuckoo" and "Klute" — retains a good deal of wit.

This is a love story between two characters that escapes the formula stereotype of smoldering embraces. Bottoms is the youngest son in a family of decided intellectual achievers. His solution is not to compete. Smith is more composed, middle aged, very matter-of-fact English, who desperately doesn't want to encourage any man but is too English to offend them as well.

They meet in the back of a jouncing bus touring Spain. They get to know each other and eventually a touching alliance is formed. Each starts to forget a bit about coping and just begins to enjoy the other. Finally, they see how improbably they've fallen in love.

The introduction of a fatal disease, a trip home for each and a final wedding that may be dream and may not reduces the final 20 minutes to Love Story bathos.

Maggie Smith is superior in a role she does so well: a plain but attractive woman who doesn't worry about her attractiveness and thus is very attractive. (R)

Traffic. A fine, witty comedy on the subject of never quite getting from here to there on the freeway. A welcome return for French comedian Jacques Tati whose Monsieur Hulot character is as pensive and humorous as ever.

For those who may have forgotten or are not aware, M. Hulot, the wonderful creation of Tati, is a weird combination of Buster Keaton and Mr. Peepers. He has Keaton's deadpan abilities and Peepers' quiet manners, plus something of the placid backbone Alec Guinness always managed to summon up when he had to face one of life's little annoyances.

In "Traffic," Tati starts with chaos and gets his laughs from the way he inserts an unexpected and logical order to it. At the end, for example, during a crowded, rainy rush hour, people just start deserting their cars and walk away into the distance. (In French with titles.)

They also uncovered three .48 caliber shells, the knife and a bottle of unknown pills. Police said that Lane told them they had been stolen from the Rev. Mr. Kight.

A call by Ptl. Fasanella to Mr. Kight revealed that juveniles had visited his apartment in New York and that they had acted in a suspicious manner before he finally ordered them out. Also taken were some bottles of liquor, Mr. Kight said, acknowledging that the shells and knife were his.

ALL REQUESTS GRANTED By Township Board. At its July 19 meeting the Princeton Township Board of Adjustment granted all five requests for variances made before it, including one from Princeton Day School to use a large tract of land, bequeathed by the late Dean Mathey, for recreational and educational purposes in conjunction with its existing facilities.

Located adjacent to the school on The Great Road, the tract encompasses about 155 acres and includes large wooded areas, several ponds, and Mr. Mathey's former residence, which is now the headmaster's home.

PDS said it had no immediate plans to build on the property.

A request for a special permit to allow off-site parking for the Princeton Bank and Trust Company at 842 State Road was withdrawn after the July 11 meeting of the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

At that meeting the bank reviewed its plans for the site, formerly the Moore Mower Shop, located adjacent to the bank's existing facility. The plans called for the use of the budding for storage and office space and the inclusion of only five new parking spaces.

That number fell within existing zoning regulations for the site, and consequently the item was dropped from the Adjustments Board agenda.

SPECIALISTS SOUGHT For Borough Committees. With a formal resolution establishing a Joint Consolidation Committee already approved by both the Borough and the Townsbip, aod the formation of a Rent Leveling Board likely following public hearing on that proposed ordinance next Tuesday at 8 p.m. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley figures he will need some warm bodies to staff the new positions.

At his weekly press conference in Borough Hall, he welcomed all applications.

"We may pick up one person from the Housing Advisory Council, but we may want some specialists also," he said. "Someone with competence in the building trades would be a big help. Also someone with appraisal realty competence."

A tenant and a landlord also will be needed for the Rent Leveling Board if the proposed ordinance is enacted. "We shouldn't have any trouble finding them," Mayor Cawley said.

The Joint Consolidation Committee will require five members from both the Borough and Township. "I've got four or five applications already," said the mayor. "But we could again use some specialists — people with knowledge of economics, tax rates, someone with experience at this particular level of government."

Cost Estimate. Mr. Cawley predicted that the Joint Committee would not be constituted before September.

He set August 7 as a target date for assembliog the Rent Leveling Board.

The estimate of $8-10,000 as the annual cost of administering the rent leveling ordinance was just a rough figure, Mr. Cawley emphasized. "We expect the total budget, including some litigation costs, to be about that. But it's sill pretty vague," he said.

"We don't know what the work load will be like on the part time person who would have to be hired. We are saying half-time, but that position will probably be pretty busy at first," the mayor said.

CLAY ST. WOMAN VICTIM Of $280 Flim-Flam. A Clay Street woman was flim flamed of $280 Friday by two well-dressed, smooth-talking con artists who escaped with her money.

Mrs. Gennie Deans, 64 Clay, was quoted by police as telling this story: After making a deposit at the Princeton Bank and Trust in the afternoon, she was approached by two men who asked if she had any money in the bank. They showed her a red handkerchief which, she said, contained a large amount of money

They wanted to deposit it, they said, but didn't know how to make withdrawals. They said they would pay Mrs. Deans $25 if she would show them how to draw money from the bank

According to police, Mrs Deans told them the two men then helped her make out a deposit slip for $280 They took her money and added it to the sum in the handerchief, tying three knots in it and handing it to her for safekeeping

They told her, she said, to hang on to it until 5:30 when they would contact her. Meantime, they said, they had to go rent a room. Mrs. Deans told police, when she called them at 5:35, that she had become suspicious, and when she opened the handkerchief she discovered nothing but pieces of paper.

She told police that the two men, both black, were well dressed. One wore a dark, pin stripe suit. The second a white leather coat and a blue fedora hat.

Morgan Against Rent Control.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Because I cannot be present at the July 31 Council meeting at which the "Rent Leveling" ordinance will be presented for final passage, I would like to outline the reasons why I feel the ordinance should not be passed, and to suggest alternative solutions to alleviating the ever present shortage of rental units in the Borough.

Basically, the proposed ordinance has two objectives:

1. to protect commercial tenants, especially those in low and middle income brackets, from unwarranted and severe increases in their monthly rentals;
2. to insure that tenants of varying income levels will not be forced to move out of the Borough because of rent increases they can no longer afford, and thus, to keep the Borough from becoming a one-class, "golden ghetto" town.

There can be no argument about the social desirability of these two objectives. What I question, however, is whether this proposed ordinance can accomplish them.

Let's look first at objective 1. As part of the backup information required to legalize the need for the proposed ordinance, the Borough's Housing Advisory Committee commissioned a renter survey (The Fenton Levine Report). This excellent report showed, among many other things, that as of approximately May 1, 1973:

- There were 910 private, commercial rentals units in the Borough.
- 256 of these units (38%) were rented by people who "were worried about" having to move out of the Borough because of their rental costs.
- Of the 256 units, 169 units (66%) had had an increase of 11% or more within the past 1-3 months (i.e. between February and May 1, 1973), 58 units had had an increase of 6-10% and 28 units had had an increase of 1-5%
- Presumably, therefore, the problem focuses down to the people in the 256 units who are really hard pressed now because they already in 1973 have had to absorb rent hikes of varying degrees and are now faced with uncontrolled rents under Phase IV

Unfortunately, the proposed ordinance ho ldstuo

ordinance holds out little relief for this group. Those rents which were raised prior to the date of passage of the ordinance will, under the ordinance's terms, remain in effect until the termination of the lease.

Thus, the people in the 169 units mentioned above will have to continue paying their present rents until about February 1, 1974 when presumably some of the "11% or more" leases will begin to expire. Even then there will be relief (in the form of a lower "base rent") only for those whose rents were raised after May 1, 1973 because that date fixes the amount of base rents allowed.

The proposed ordinance also presents the conscientious landlord, and his tenant as well, with a further ddemma: A landlord who for varying reasons has not raised a particular rent at all for many years (yes, there are some) will almost be forced to raise that rent, at least by the CPI percentage increase permitted, on the expiration of the current lease term. If he does not do so, he will be stuck with an artificially low base rent as of May 1, 1973.

If he does do so, the present rent could go up very sharply (because of the increase in CPI over, say, the past three of four years) thereby either causing a hardship on his present tenant or raising the rent to a level beyond the reach of the average Borough Tenant (defined by Fenton-Levine as having a median income of $9,200). Furthermore, rent leveling will insure that leases will henceforth be restricted to one year, at the longest.

Turning now to Objective 2. It seems plain to me that with or without rent leveling, Princeton Borough has a long way to go before it becomes a one-class community. A walk or ride around our little town should make this obvious to even the most passionate partisan of the proposed ordinance.

The number of variety of housing types, good and bad, to be found is truly extraordinary in such a small area of only 1.76 square miles. If we want our stock of rental housing to be maintained, upgraded, and expanded, the fairest and most practical way to accomplish this is to take a hard look at better coordination of our zoning and planning policies, rather than trying to legislate morality by controlling rents

Much can be done, and quite quickly, to encourage such things as conversions, tenant purchases of their presently rented units and purchase of sub standard units by local government through proper coordination between Council, the Planning Board and the Zoning Board For example, the current proposal to develop the old Spruce Street quarry site presents us with an excellent oportunity to build a mix of multi family units in the heart of the Borough which conceivably could combine private and partially subsidized rental units for varying income levels.

The site also lends itself to one or more high rise buildings. But rent control would contribute nothing to developing such properties of which we have few left in the Borough.

I have other objections to the proposed ordinance such as its complexity, its administrative cost (at least one tax point) and the likelihood of expensive legal proceedings for the Borough Taxpayer if it is challenged in court. But fundamentally, I think it is a mistake because, overall, it will not help those who need help the most and it could very well increase living costs in Princeton even more than they would otherwise go up in this inflationary period we are all suffering through today.

ARTHUR P. MORGAN
Borough Councilman

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The members of Mercer Engine Co. No 3 wish to thank their many friends and the merchants in Princeton Borough and Princeton Township for giving prizes to insure the success of their Chief's Outing to be held August 4.

We wish also to thank Landau's, 114 Nassau Street, for allowing us to display gifts for two weeks in one of their windows.

Heat, But No Light

To the Editor, Town Topics:

While the heat of summer is still upon us, let us be reminded that another year has come and gone without illumination at the Community Pool. Perhaps a simpler lighting scheme can be devised as a temporary measure (until their grandiose plans come to fruition).

Also, why can't the Recreation Committee put some more recreation in the complex, e.g., volley ball, badminton and shuffleboard.

FARMLAND LAW REVISED For Tax Purposes. Recent revisions in the New Jersey Farmland Assessment Act have tightened the eligibility requirements for land qualifying under the program, according to Secretary of Agriculture Phillip Alampi, who is chairman of the State Farmland Evaluation Advisory Committee.

Alampi said that no change has been made in the basic requirements that, to qualify, land must be at least five acres in area and must have produced gross sales of agricultural or horticultural products totaling at least $500 per year during the two-year period immediately preceding the tax year in question.

An additional requirement resulting from the recent revisions of the law is that, where the land involved is more than five acres in area, gross sales of agricultural or horticultural products, together with any payments received under a soil conservation program, must average $5 per acre per year for all acreage above the first five. This average must have been maintained for the two-year period preceding the tax year or there must be clear evidence of anticipated yearly sales and payments averaging $5 per acre per year within a reasonable period of time. Exceptions are wondland and wetland where the average must be at least 50 cents per acre per year on the area above five acres.

Philip Alampi

The revisions further provide that land previously qualified as actively devoted to agricultural or horticultural use under the Farmland Assessment Act, but failing to meet the additional requirements on acreage above five acres, shall not be subject to the rollback tax because of such disqualification.

As an example, Alampi used a 100-acre farm, comprised of 50 acres of cropland, 30 acres of pasture and 20 acres of woodland and/or wetland. Prior to the revisions of the Farmland Assessment Act, the farm would have been required to have produced products with a gross sales value of $500. Under the new revisions, in addition to the $500 for the first five acres, the farm would have had to produce $385, or a total of $885 based on the 75 remaining acres of cropland and pasture and 20 acres of woodland/or wetland. This represents an increase of more than 75 percent in the gross sales requirements.

Alampi said that all applicants should be aware of these changes and be sure that land included in the application will meet these requirements. Applications for the 1974 tax year must be in the hands of the local tax assessor by August 1, 1973.

CYCLIST, 8, IS STRUCK

At Stockton and Elm. Karen Lee Bowen, 8, 83 Stockton Street, was struck by a car last Wednesday morning as she was attempting to turn left off Stockton into Marquand Park. She was taken to Princeton Medical Center, where she was treated for superficial abrasions.

Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli charged the driver with inattentive driving and issued a summons for careless driving to Elizabeth W. Wales, 72, 3 Palmer Square. According to the police investigation, both vehicles were traveling west on Stockton and the car struck the cyclist with its front fender when she attempted to turn.

SKILLMAN MAN CHARGED

With Alcohol Violation. Frederick T. Skipworth, 21, Hollow Road, Skillman, has been charged by Borough police with providing alcohol for minors.

He was observed by Ptl. Victor Fasanella Sunday allegedly giving alcoholic beverages to juveniles on the Nassau Hall front campus. After being issued a complaint summons he was later released.

TOYS FOR RUSSIAN CHILDREN: Six-Year-old Kim Trovers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark G. Travers, Stuart Road, entering the first grade at Stuart Country Day School, plays with a see-through music box on the lap of Mrs Mildred Harford, a teacher and co-foundress of Stuart. Mrs. Harford is in Russia this week to present toys to a young Communist summer camp. The music box, which plays Tschoikowsky's Swan Lake Ballet, and others were provided by Seymour Gartenberg (standing) president of Creative Ploythings.

Princetonian Taking Toys to Russian Children

A see-through music box which plays Russian composer Peter Tschaikowsky's Swan Lake Ballet will help the harmony between the United States and Russia, courtesy of a woman who found pleasure in puppeteering and is now the only Montessori-trained teacher in a Princeton Catholic school.

Mrs. Mildred W. Harford, 32 Mason Drive, is taking the music box to Moscow next week when she'll visit a young Communist summer camp to talk about early childhood education in this country.

She speaks no Russian, but she anticipates no problems in communicatilng. "Despite differences in philosophy, Americans and Russians share a love and respect for children, and for the importance of education."

The music box and several other toys provided by Creative Playthings, of Cranbury, will help Mrs. Harford make some of her points about the principles and practices of American education.

Igloo, Too. She'll also bring a 50 ft. inflatable igloo, a rug croquet game, see-through puzzles, a telescope, a stethoscope, a magic box, "Color forms," "Build a Picture," "Matchmates," and "Atoms."

The toys are typical preschool and early grade-school materials from Creative Playthings which offer children a variety of ways to learn while they're having the fun of playing.

Mrs. Harford left the United States last Friday, and will return this Saturday. She'll visit Leningrad as well as Moscow.

Her trip to the young Communist (Pioneer) camp is at the invitation of Moscow's Space Research Institute, USSR Academy of Sciences. Mrs. Harford met Dr. Zonov through the work of her husband, James, executive secretary of the New York City-based American Institute of Aeronautics & Astronautics.

World Travels. Part of Mr. Harford's work is arranging scientific exhibits and he travels around the world in handling his responsibilities. Mrs. Harford often accompanies him. For several years, the Harfords have entertained foreign scientists in their home, exchanging philosophies and friendships.

Dr. Zonov visited the Harfords last May, and they renewed acquaintances last fall in Vienna. The invitation was granted because Dr. Zonov learned of Mrs. Harford's dedication to the education of young children.

Mrs. Harford teaches preschoolers at Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart. She is also a co-foundress of the school. Although Stuart is a Roman Catholic, Mrs. Harford sees no conflicts in her relationship with the Russians.

She says they have been extremely polite in their discussions about education and even religion. "They have proven excellent guests, careful not to offend, even though they have a different philosophy."

God in Outer Space. She did recall one Russian, however, who teased her about the Russian cosmonauts. He said they didn't see God in outer space.

"I told him God wasn't there," Mrs. Harford quietly responded. "I just pointed to his heart and said, 'This is where He is.' He smiled, and we changed the subject."

Mrs. Harford hasn't always been a teacher. After receiving her B.A. degree in art and English from the University of Richmond in Virginia, she toured New Jersey as a puppeteer with the Cedric Head group.

The birth of her first child, Susan, resulted in her temporary retirement—but this also proved the impetus for her interest in education.

Became a Teacher. "Susan wanted to learn to read," Mrs. Harford noted, "and as I began helping her, I realized I wasn't prepared. As I learned more about the subject, I became deeply interested in all the problems of children. And so I became a teacher."

She received her training at the Whitby School in Greenwich, Conn., where she learned the Montessori method, created by the famed educator, Marie Montessori. In fact, she took her examination with Mrs. Montessori's son, Mario. She received an International and an American Certificate and opened a school in Griggstown.

She helped found the Stuart School ten years ago and has been there ever since.

It has about a 40% non Catholic population. Several nuns teach there, but there are also many lay teachers—and of course Mrs. Harford is the only teacher with Montessori training.

"We all learn from each other," she comments. "It's good for us, and it's even better for the children."

Mrs. Harford has four children, Susan, 19; James, 18, Jennifer, 13, and Christopher, 10.

SEDIMENT YIELDS LOWER

In Stony Brook. A downward trend in the rate of sediment release in the Stony Brook Basin, a 48 square mile watershed west of Princeton, was reported in the recently-published results of a 14-year study conducted by the U.S. Geological Survey in cooperation with the State Departments of Agriculture and Environmental Protection.

A sediment study of Carnegie Lake made in 1952 showed that the lake contained a heavy suspended sediment discharge from Stony Brook. In 1956, the Mercer and Hunterdon Soil Conservation Districts, in cooperation with the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, requested U.S. Soil Conservation Service assistance under the Federal Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act to control sedimentation and flooding in the Stony Brook Basin. At that time, the Geological Survey began its intensive investigation in order to define sources of suspended sediment discharge and to evaluate trends in such discharge.

Peter J. Anderson, hydrologist with the Geological Survey's New Jersey District and coauthor of the report, said that "sediment yields in the initial period of the investigation were higher than they are today. Residential, highway, pipeline and reservoir construction in and near the stream channel temporarily increased sediment yields. Lower yields during recent years reflect the influence of the 1962-66 drought, stabilization of residential growth, and completion of seven small sediment-retention reservoirs in the watershed. Preliminary estimates suggest that these reservoirs will reduce the sediment yields to Carnegie Lake by about 20 percent."

Secretary of Agriculture Phillip Alampi, who is chairman of the State Soil Conservation Committee, commented: "This study has again identified this watershed as one of the highest nonurban sediment discharging areas in the State. Erosion and sediment control programs administered by our 15 soil conservation districts in cooperation with the State Soil Conservation Committee, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, and other resource agencies are providing a means for landowners and local governments to control these problems in this basin and throughout the State."

Samuel R. Race, executive secretary of the State Committee, reported that "statewide standards for erosion control have recently been distributed and are available at district ofices on a limited basis." Because of demands for these standards, which serve as land use guidelines to enhance environmental quality, a second printing is in progress and will be available later this year.

WATERCOLORS ON VIEW

Exhibit Opens Sunday. Watercolors by Charles Dunn will be exhibited at the Studio-on-the-Canal, beginning with an outdoor opening Sunday.

A native of Rowayton, Conn., now living in Cranbury, he began his studies with Margaret Kennard Johnson at the Museum of Modern Art. Recently his studies have been with Rex Goreleigh and Alexander Lee at the Studio-on-the-Canal.

Dunn's works have been in several shows including the Garden State Watercolor Society and the Princeton Art Association. This is his first one-man show and his work shows a profound respect for the laws of color and the chromatic scale. His warm and cool grays are disciplined and controlled, the results are exciting in execution with the deftness and style of Marin. The unconfined drawing is held together by laws of organization.

Charles Dunn's work is indicative of the beginning of a career of a major watercolorist. The exhibit can be seen daily from 2-5 until August 12.

EXHIBIT PLANNED

At Art Confederation Gallery. The serigraphs of Rex Goreleigh and photographs of Jack MacLaren will be presented at the Art Confederation Gallery, 77 Main Street, Kingston, from Friday, August 3, through Saturday, August 25. A reception for the artists will be held on August 3 from 7 to 9 in the evening.

Rex Goreleigh has recently completed a series of eight paintings, called "The Tobacco Grower", These were inspired by sketches originally done by the artist in 1939, when he was living in Greensboro, N.C.

As Mr. Goreleigh completed the paintings, he also reproduced them by the serigraphic (silk-screen) process. Since the silk screens were prepared by hand by the artist, the resulting prints are interesting variations of the original paintings. Both the paintings and the prints will be on exhibit. Mr. Goreleigh, who owns and operates the Studio-on-the-Canal, has been well known on the Princeton art scene for a number of years.

Jack MacLaren has turned his photographic eye to catching activities of interest. His subject matter roams from bicycle racers to jungle beasts in captivity. Mr. MacLaren is a resident of Scotch Plains. He is a photographer by avocation, and an employee of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill.

Gallery hours are 1-5, Tuesday-Saturday. The Art Confederation Gallery may be found in Owen's Barn, opposite the church on Main St. in Kingston.

PREPARING FOR EXHIBIT: Rex Goreleigh making a print from the "Tobacco Grower Series" by silk-screen process. The prints, as well as the original eight paintings of this series, will be on exhibit from August 3 to 25 at the Art Confederation Gallery, 77 Main St. (in Owen's Barn), Kingston.

In 1847 the anesthetic property of chloroform was discovered. Since that time, many new anesthetics both local and general, have been introduced. The use of anesthetics has made possible the performance of many operations which otherwise could not have been undertaken. Understandably, surgery advanced quickly during the twentieth century. All sorts of surgery are performed today which could not have been dreamed of in 1847.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

By John Bernard

Here's a little known fact about Sandy Koufax . . . Do you know what kind of start Sandy had when he first came to the big leagues? . . . Most fans don't remember it today, but Sandy actually lost more games than he won during his early years in the majors . . . He joined the Dodgers in 1955 and between then and the end of the 1960 season, he had won a total of 36 games — but he had lost a total of 40 games! . . . Nobody knew at that time that Sandy Koufax would go on to become one of the greatest pitchers of all-time.

Who was the youngest man ever to manager a big league baseball team! . . . The answer only 23 when he was picked as 23 when he was picked as manager of the Yankees in 1914 . . . LouBoudreau is the 2nd youngest manager in major league history . . . Lou was only 24 when he was named pilot of the Indians in 1942.

We've all looked at a baseball home plate hundreds of times but most people, for some reason miss this question . . . Can you remember if the point of home plate faces the pitcher or the catcher! The point faces the catcher.

I bet you didn't know . . . that colors used on highway signs also carry symbolic meaning. Red-stop or prohibition; yellow-warning; blue-services; green-movement or directional guidance. S.D.B. means dependable insurance.

Class of '77 Holds Promise in Football Despite Recruiting Problems

Early last January, Princeton's undulating football fortunes dipped to a low point unmatched in a quarter-century when Jake McCandless resigned after four years as head coach. It was two months later that the widespread search for a successor ended with the selection of Bob Casciola, former All-Ivy tackle here who had held the top job at Connecticut for the past two years.

The eight-week gap while the coaching reins dangled idly could have been disastrous to any immediate renaissance for the Orange and Black, because it came at a time when many members of the prospective Class of 1977 were making final decisions on the college on their choice. In the face of attractive pictures (and often scholarship offers) from many other colleges where the boat was not being rocked how many good players could Princeton expect to attract when no one could say who its next coach would be?

As matters developed, various factors worked together on Princeton's behalf.

SPORTS in Princeton

Before Casciola was named, staff members who remained from the McCandless regime were in touch with high school seniors.

Literally within hours of his appointment here, he himself was able to talk with a number of top prospects who, by coincidence, were visiting the Princeton campus as part of a program planned weeks earlier for several schools in the New Jersey - New York - Pennsylvania area.

Fast Start on Assistants. Almost as soon as he sat down at his new desk in Jadwin, Casciola began to make quick progress in announcing new appointments to round out his staff. His solid selections not only created an immediately favorable impression, but allowed the earliest additions to the new regime to talk to prospects during the last of March and early April. Seniors have until May 1 to notify the college of their choice that they will enter in September.

"In March, when I took over as head coach," Casciola says, "I set as my number one priority the need to maintain a contact with all potential recruits." So well was the task accomplished by the Tiger alumnus and his seven man-staff (three holdovers, four new) that some 60% of those sought, and admitted, have reported plans to come here in the fall.

"It was absolutely essential that we salvage something from this recruiting year," Casciola comments. "With the help of those staff members who remained and the newly-appointed coaches, we were able to meet personally and talk with almost all our applicants.

"It took a real effort to overcome the two-month lapse that was involved in the appointment of a head coach, but I feel we were successful in getting a good percentage of those candidates admitted. So, although we may lack real numbers, we do seem to have quality. This is an encouraging note because I am confident we will have a larger and better variety to pick from in the future."

Squad of 80 Expected. Expectations are that some fourscore members of the freshman class will report for football in mid-September to Coach Artie Williams. If the quality of which

Bob Casciola

Casciola speaks realizes its potential, Princeton will have back-to-back classes with a number of good players. Despite a 2-4 record last year, the Class of '76 will provide the varsity with some extremely useful varsity candidates.

When he spoke at the press conference scheduled to announce his appointment, Casciola indicated emphatically that the current preponderance of players from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania was not a satisfactory recruiting policy, and that Tiger squads in the future would be far more widespread geographically. While little advance information of the capabilities of the Class of '77 has become available, one whose reputation precedes him here from Colorado is Mike Stein, a 190-lb., 6-2 quarterback reputedly of considerable promise.

In competition with other Ivy colleges, belief on the Princeton campus is that, despite the problems last winter, Princeton was second only to Harvard in its success with the new freshman class. Reports have been that the Tigers bested Dartmouth, Penn and Brown in numerous "confrontations" that saw these colleges seeking identical players.

One source revealed that of seven players admitted to both Dartmouth and Princeton, all seven will matriculate here. Such a statistic is the reverse of trends that have prevailed in recent years.

Princeton football fans who make it a habit to watch the freshman play will have an opportunity to do so at night twice this season. Games under lights will be played Friday, October 26, and Friday, November 2, against Penn and Columbia. They will start at 7:30 on the field at the open end of Palmer Stadium.

The freshmen play their first game Saturday morning, October 13, against Rutgers at New Brunswick — the day the varsity is at Ithaca to face Cornell. Navy's Plebes will be here the following Friday afternoon at 3.

Following the two night contests, the freshmen will play Harvard at Cambridge

McLANAHAN IS WINNER

Of Men's Tennis Tournament. Sandy McLanahan won the Men's Tennis Tournament held last week at the University Courts.

Sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Committee and the Princeton YMCA, the annual event was dominated this year by entries from the staff of the Princeton Community Tennis Program. Five of the eight seeded players are presently instructing in the Program: Bill Foreman, Jeff Oakes, Michel Glouchevitch, Bruce Von Cannon and McLanahan.

Up to the semi-finals, McLanahan had lost only one game in routing four players. In a hard-fought semi match, he finally overcame Ken Wilson, 7-6, 6-4. In the final round, he was matched with a Princeton teammate of his, Bruce Von Cannon, whom he defeated, 6-4, 6-1.

An exciting match was played between Von Cannon and Glouchevitch in the other semi-final. Von Cannon won the first set easily, 6-1 but then was carried to a 6-6 tie-breaker in the second before taking the set, 7-6, and the match. Glouchevitch of Princeton was named the "Most Improved Player" in the Middle States last year and, as a freshman, was named to the Swarthmore varsity.

PRINCETON PLAYERS WIN

In Tennis Exchange Matches. Boys and girls of the Community Tennis Program competed with an equal number from the Westfield Tennis Club last week in one of a series of exchange matches planned as part of the summer tennis activities.

Of the 22 matches played, the Program's competitors won 19. A match goes to the player who is first to win 11 games.

POST 76 LOSES TWICE

To Lawrence. Princeton Post 76 dropped a twin bill to Lawrence Post 414 last week in the Mercer County American Legion League, losing the first, 4-1, and the second, 3-1.

George Boccanfuso batted in Princeton's only run in the first game in the last inning. Lawrence won the game when it scored three runs off Post 76 pitcher John Mooney in the fourth. Mooney, who lost his fourth in five decisions, went the distance, giving up nine hits, walking one and striking out two.

Chris Crane, Gary Leonardo and Jeff Rohm each had two hits for the losers as Princeton outhit Lawrence, 10 to 9.

In the second game, Leonardo (1-4) gave up only two hits to Lawrence, but one was a triple by Greg Kline in the fifth inning when the victors scored all their runs. Kline was a member of the Princeton High School nine for the past three years.

Again, Princeton had the edge in hits, collecting five off Lawrence hurler Mike Hunter. Rohm had two of them. Both Hunter (3-2) and Leonardo struck out seven.

The league championship will be decided in a three-game playoff between Ewing Post 314, champions of the Northern Division, and 3 Seasons Post 31, victors in the Southern Division.

STRAIGHT SET VICTOR

In Women's Tennis. Mary Goodenough of Pennington last week won the women's tennis tournament sponsored by the YMCA and Princeton ennis Committee. She defeated Laura Goldfield in the finals, 6-4, 6-4.

The two have competed against each other in three other finals. In their most recent match, Mrs. Goodenough defeated Mrs. Goldfield in the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center's Women's Tournament. Tournament victories between them are even.

Two unseeded players advanced to the semi-finals. Arlene Clemens defeated seventh seed Miriam Leinwoll in the quarter round and carried Mrs. Goldfield to three sets before bowing, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. In another upset, Joyce Clark defeated the sixth seed, Patty Wall, only to be eliminated later by Mrs. Goodenough, 0-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In Springdale Event. The annual Jean McLean Tournament held at the Springdale Golf Club last week was won by Ruth Shaw and Betty Bardwell.

More than 50 women competed in the two-day, 36-hole better ball event. Full handicaps were used with the winners carding a 128 score. Runners-up Joan Thompson and Ann Poole finished with 131.

The Ladies' Day weekly tournament is called the Moaners Delight Sweepstake in which the player's poorest three holes were thrown out and one-half their sweepstake used for the remaining holes.

Claire Massick and Claire Parsells tied for first place with 61s. In second place were Ruth Pettit and Debbe Pierson, both with 61½. Winners for the 9-holers were Nancy Lanahan, first, and Ann Dix, second.

PLUS SIGN DOMINATE

In Latest Business Index. In one of its strongest showings over the past several quarters, TOWN TOPICS' business index for the three months' period ending June 30 registered gains in 11 out of the 14 categories, in comparison with the preceding quarter.

The only areas to show a drop were new housing, value of building permits and property transfers, all in the Township.

Construction figures, which always show an increase from the cold months in the initial quarters, registered significant gains in the Borough. Building permits were up 28 percent in the Borough and the value of construction permits more than doubled.

The figures on funds flowing in and out of the town's four financial institutions showed their usual upside pattern. Savings, which have rarely gone down, checking accounts, which posted the best gain, and loans, were up one, six and six percent, respectively. The percentage increase in the yearly comparison is the best in many quarters for these three categories.

Parking meter receipts and postal receipts also posted small gains while telephones in service recorded a big increase. Third quarter figures will be hard pressed to maintain the pace.

INTEREST RATES HIKED

At Princeton Savings. The Board of Directors of Princeton Savings has voted to increase interest paid on regular savings accounts, effective July 1, 1973, and at the same time announced a new series of savings certificates and passbook accounts paying up to 7%.

According to William H. Boozer Jr., President of the $43,000,000 savings institution, all existing regular savings accounts will automatically earn 5¼% a year. This new, higher rate will also apply to all new regular savings accounts opened, effective immediately.

A new, 90-day prestige passbook account with a $500 minimum, will also be available to savers at a rate of 5¾% a year, from day of deposit.

New 4-year savings certificates will earn 7% a year; 2½ year certificates will earn 6¾%; and 2 year certificates 6½% — all with minimums of $5,000. With a minimum of $1,000 a new one-year certificate is available at Princeton Savings at 6¼%. All rates are compounded and payable quarterly.

"Recently announced Federal regulations permit us to increase our Regular Savings rate," Mr. Boozer said. "We have long had a policy of paying the highest savings rates commensurate with sound and prudent management. This once again is the highest savings rate in the United States paid on this type of account," he said.

"The provision allowing for 10 grace days every month on regular savings accounts remains in effect," he said. "Deposits made by the 10th of the month, earn interest as if they had been in the account the first day of that month.

Princeton Savings has offices at 132 Nassau Street in Princeton, and 2649 Main Street in Lawrenceville.

NASSAU RATES UP ALSO

As High As 6¾%. Nassau Savings and Loan has increased its passbook dividend rate to 5¼%, effective July 1.

In making the announcement Bank President Walter Foster said that funds deposited by the 10th of the month draw dividends from the 1st of the month. Dividends are compounded and paid quarterly and money may be withrawn at any time.

Mr. Foster also said that the rates on savings certificates are being increased to 6¾% on a $10,000 minimum account, 6¼% on a $5,000 minimum account, and 6% on a $1,000 minimum account.

Each of the three types of certificates must be held to maturity dates to collect full dividends. These are 30 months on the $10,000 6¾% rate, 24 months on the $5,000 6¼% rate, and 12 months on the $1,000 6% rate.

All certificates are in multiples of $1,000. Accounts are insured up to $20,000 by the Federal Government.

Nassau Savings and Loan Association's main office is at 194 Nassau Street. A branch office is located in Princeton Junction at 44 Hightstown Road. Both offices are open Monday through Friday, 9-4, and Friday evening, 5-7.

EARNINGS UP 1 PER CENT

For United Jersey Banks. United Jersey Banks today reported a 1% increase in per share income before securities transactions for the six months ended June 30. First National of Princeton is a member bank.

The state-wide, multibank holding company posted income before securities transactions of $5,060,000, $1.05 per share through June 30, compared with $5,561,000, $1.04 per share for the same period last year.

Net income, including losses from the sale of securities of $924,000, dropped to $4,736,000, $.88 per share at June 30, 1973 from $5,946,000, $1.11 per share at mid-year 1972.

In mid-June, the company announced that June 30 earnings were expected to approximate those of the previous year due to the actions by monetary authorities during the first five months of 1973 which forced the cost of short term funds to rise at a faster rate than lending rates were permitted to increase. The statement was a revision of UJB's March announcement forecasting a 12-16% gain in the company's earnings for the full year 1973.

Mid-year and second quarter earnings for 1973, income before securities transactions was $2,736,000, or $.51 per share, compared with $2,898,000, $.54 per share for the like period in 1972. Net income for the second quarter was $1,839,000, or $.34 per share compared with $2,979,000, or $.55 per share for the same quarter in 1972.

EARNINGS UP SLIGHTLY

At Princeton American. Earnings, deposits and resources of the Princeton American Bancorp all showed slight increases for the first half of 1973, despite a second quarter squeeze in which primary net operating income per share decreased to $0.47 from $0.48 in last year's second quarter.

Princeton Bank and Trust Company is a founding member of the bank holding company.

In making the semi-annual earnings announcement James D. Elleman, chairman and chief executive officer, cited "political pressures and statutory limitations" that have artificially suppressed many loan yields. The decision to raise regular savings rates to 5%, he added, may also result in lower short-run earnings, but are necessary for longer-run growth.

In his report Mr. Elleman also noted the company's approval of a new branch office in Windsor for Princeton Bank and Trust.

The full first half results showed that primary net operating earnings were $2,384,230 or $0.93 a share for the first half of 1973, versus $2,350,667 or $0.91 a share for the first half of 1972.

Primary net income after securities losses was $2,346,790 or $0.91 a share versus $2,293,996 or $0.88 a share. Fully diluted net income after securities losses was $0.84 a share over $0.81 a share last year.

Deposits averaged $446,068,000 for the second quarter compared with $426,757,000 during last year's second quarter. At the end of June deposits were $451,887,290 compared to $435,581,464. Total resources at the end of June reached a new high of $576,056,598, up $51,611,166 from $524,445,432 a year ago.

FEDERAL STUDY PLANNED

By Mathematica. Mathematica, a Princeton-based research and consulting firm, has announced that it has been engaged by the Council on Environmental Quality, Executive Office of the President, to provide management and technical consulting services to the Council, which has initiated a study of the implications of the implementation of offshore nuclear power plant technology.

This study, which will have the participation of many federal agencies, will consider technical, economic, environmental, safety, national security and legal issues of the offshore concept. The Council plans to provide a final report for public access.

PHOTOGRAPHER RETURNS

Will Accept Assignments. Kathleen Blumenfeld, a photographer in Princeton and New York in the mid-1960s, has returned to Princeton for a brief visit and has announced that she will be available for assignments through the end of August. Her home and studio are at 40 Linden Lane.

Since her departure from Princeton in 1967, she has lived in Europe — three years in Geneva and three years in Paris. In Paris, she did portrait photography of various government and political figures, including Joseph Fontanet, the Minister of Education and Rene Pleven, the Minister of Justice. In addition, she photographed artists and writers and accepted private commissions.

She maintained a studio in Montparnasse, and a house in Gif-sur-Yvette, the community where Kissinger and Le Duc Tho met for Vietnam discussions.

She expects to fulfill job commitments for Columbia Artists and the World Bank during her stay in the United States.

Mrs. Blumenfeld is the wife of Dr. Henry Blumenfeld, nuclear physicist who is on the staff of the French counterpart of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Bobby Logemann, Scott Wilson, Mark Poricz, Peter Dolotto, Hughes Muller, Jim Goodenough, Grant Cooper, Norman Lewis, Phillips Macary, Bobby Bowen, ames Brown, Jimmy Burke, Tres Arnett, Doug Ferguson, Michael Southwick, Richard Defenderfer, Adam Abelson, Rob Littel, Robert Lynch, Dan Miller, Oavid Peattie, Ivan Klarich, David Amarel and Robert Schwartz.

Upsets also characterized the girls 12 and under singles tennis tournament.

First seeded Jane Arrington fell to third seeded Michel Newman in the semi-finals, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Fourth seeded Ann Hackenberg was upset in the first round by Laurie Koche of Chatham, 6-2, 6-3. Laurie then defeated Suzanne 6-1, 6-0 before losing to second seeded Karen Clark 6-1, 3-6, 7-6 in the semi-finals. Karen was the victor in the short final match with thirdseeded Michele Newman, 6-1, 6-0.

Other entries in the girls 12's were: Natalie Guard, Pierette Newman, Nicola King, Diane Aronovic, Cynthia McVay, Mimi Goosen, Margaret Clark and Mary Pat Cahill.

SANNINO'S WINS PAIR

In Softball League. Sannino's kept the pressure on Ivy Inn in the Adult Softhall League last week by winning a pair of games.

It defeated Andy's Tavern, 6-3, on the strength of a four-run sixth inning, the product of hits by Bill McQuade, Walt Brower, Nick Ryan and Mike Desmond.

Earlier, Sannino's eked out an important 4-3 victory over Conte-Staats. Tom Brophy drove in George McVaugh with a single in the third for the winning run.

Both teams had an off night at the plate. C-S's only flexed its muscle once when John Milchansoki stroked a two-run homer in the fourth. McQuade, Sannino's captain and shortstop, made several outstanding defensive plays to halt would-be C-S rallies.

Conte-Staats rebounded with a 7-3 victory over Center Sports, a vastly improved team. Rob Staats got things going by leading off the game with an opposite field home run. C-S picked up three insurance runs in the next inning which it needed because it was trailing, 2-1, at the time, on hits by Mark Hassan, Charley Warchefski and Staats.

Center Sports had better luck against PCR earlier in the week as the Sportsmen shaded PCR, 7-6, on two runs in the last inning. It was the second time this season that the Sportsmen had come from behind to win in the last frame. Brendon Layton, Jaime Petrone and Mike Guadagno had key hits for Center Sports.

PIASC banged out 24 hits in posting an easy 15-8 triumph over PCR. The Italian-Americans scored six in the first and never trailed, although PCR managed to collect 14 hits in a losing cause. Dan Corvino had a perfect night at the plate for PIASC.

First-place Ivy Inn rebounded from its lone defeat with an 8-2 win over Sports 'n Things. The Big Green jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning, as Bill Bartolino led off with a homer. His blast was followed with safeties by Bucky Boccanfuso, Tony Perone, Dave Sweeney, Buddy Britton and Albie Toto.

GREEN UNDEFEATED

In Summer Lacrosse. Green continued undefeated last week in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse League when it romped past Blue, 13-3. Green is 4-0, while Red is 3-1, Navy 1-3 and Blue, 0-4.

Three accounted for all Green goals. Gary Neils had five and Mark Tullis and Pete Woods four each. Tullis and Woods also had two assists apiece. Tim Smith, two goals, and Craig Singer scored for Blue.

In the second contest, Red came from behind in the second half to stop Navy, 5-3. Chip Hall led the victors with three goals while Tim Koplin-er and Alan Fitzpatrick added one each. Boh Turgeon, Joe McGuinn and Mace Mohrmann scored for Navy.

On Sunday, the Princeton Lacrosse All Stars will travel to Harrishurg, Pa. to play the Harrisburg Lacrosse Club in a 2 o.m. game.

$200,000 TO PRINCETON

For Renovatiag Frick Lab. Princeton University has announced receipt of a $200,000 grant from The Haas Community Fund toward modernization and renovation of its Henry C. Frick Laboratory, home of the Departments of Chemistry and Biochemical Sciences, and one of its major science facilities.

The Haas Community Fund of Philadelphia, founded in 1945 as the Phoebe Waterman Foundation by the Haas family, is active in the fields of education, conservation and restoration, culture, social welfare, health care and housing, particluarly in the Greater Philadelphia Area.

In accepting the grant, President William G. Bowen expressed his gratitude to the directors of The Haas Community Fund for "moving us closer to our goal of renovating the important Frick Laboratory." He explained that "dramatic increases in the number of faculty and students using Frick Laboratory as well as a revolution in the state of the art of chemistry give the proposed renovation top priority."

Two decades ago, President Bowen said, "there were 35 faculty members in Frick; today there are 60. The number of graduate students has risen from 50 to over 100 and total undergraduate course enrollments now run well over 600 every year. And," he added, "perhaps the best illustration of the revolution that has taken place in chemistry is the fact that undergraduates now routinely undertake independent research projects as sophisticated as post-doctoral research of little more than a generation ago."

President Bowen pointed out that Princeton, the first American college to appoint a professor of chemistry, has been a leading center for teaching and research in chemistry since the late 18th century and warmly thanked the Haas Fund directors "for helping the University maintain its commitment to provide excellent facilities in the field of chemistry."

The modernization of Frick, which adjoins the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, will leave its familiar Gothic exterior untouched. Built in 1929 at a cost of $1,840,000, a major new wing — shared by chemists and biochemists — was added nine years ago at a cost of $2,188,000.

Over the next three summers a complete new exhaust and ventilation system will be installed; extensive modernization of faculty and student laboratories will be undertaken; offices, classrooms and library will be improved; and the 318-seat auditorium and seminar room renovated. The cost of the long-planned renovations will approach $3-million.

WINNERS IDENTIFIED

In Nassau Savings Celebration. Carl Applegate, manager of Nassau Savings and Loan's Princeton Junction office, announced that Jonathan Clay Treadway of Princeton Junction and Elizabeth Kathryn Payne were identified by readers as the mystery youngsters in the Nassau Savings' Princeton Junction first birthday celebration.

Mr. Applegate opened a $10.00 savings account for each youngster. Elizabeth will have to continue her savings program by mail, since the family recently moved to Towanda, Pa.

CLASS REUNION PLANNED

For Pennington High '63. The Class of 1963 at Pennington Central High School will hold its 10th reunion Friday, August 24.

It will take place at the Princeton Country Club on U.S. 1 that evening from 7:30 until 2. Further details are available from Bonnie Kines, 882-1607, or Betty Schmeiss, 466-2847.

CHECK YOUR DOG

For Possible Heartworms. "Protect your dog by having him checked for heartworms" is the advice of West Windsor Board of Health Chairman Sel Tinsley.

Heartworms, once thought to be present only in the southern states, are becoming increasingly prevalent in New Jersey. According to Dr. William C. Carter, Program Coordinator of the State Department of Health's Veterinary Public Health Program, the incidence of the disease is as frequent as 1 out of 2 or 3 dogs in some areas of southern New Jersey and 1 out of 9 or 10 in north Jersey.

In Mercer County, it is estimated that 1 out of 5 or 6 dogs is infected. Mature heart worms only develop in a small percentage of the dogs infected with the larval stage.

The disease is transmitted by mosquitoes which take up the immature worms or microfilarine from infected dogs and pass them on to healthy ones. At least 30 kinds of mosquitoes are known to be carriers.

The checkup procedure is simple. Your own veterinarian makes microscopic observations on small blood samples. Dr. Carter recommends one check-up about two months after the beginning of the mosquito season and another after the season is over. When the disease is caught in the larval stage, the cure is relatively simple. If mature heartworms develop, the treatment is difficult and the disease can be fatal.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Congressman Frelinghuysen. After several months of relatively little activity the legislative pace in the House has stepped up considerably. Frequently we have been working well into the evening, and on a full five-days-a-week schedule. Since a number of the bills passed, including the farm bill and a "war powers" resolution, are almost certain to be vetoed, some of this effort may not mean much in the way of accomplishment.

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee have been particularly busy. After several weeks of hearings and considerable discussion during "markup" sessions, the Committee finally approved a foreign aid authorization bill. A total of approximately $2.3 billion for economic and military aid has been approved.

In an effort to make our economic assistanee reach those in the greatest need, a restructuring is being recommended to provide help in especially critical areas. Special attention is to be given to production of food, rural development and nutrition; population planning and health; education, puhlic administration of human resource development.

The Foreign Affairs Committee was also deeply involved last week in an eight and one-half hour debate which concluded consideration hy the House on H.J. Res. 542, the War Powers Resolution of 1973. Debate on this proposal was begun on June 25th, but then further action was postponed for over three weeks. The resolution was finally approved by a vote of 244 to 170.

I voted against this proposal, and the President has already made it clear he will veto it should it also be passed by the Senate. The resolution seeks to deal with situations, short of a declared war, where U.S. troops are involved in hostilities overseas.

Should a President commit troops to combat he must re-

ADMISSION AIDE NAMED

At Theological Seminary. The Reverend Joseph E. Taylor has been appointed Admissions Counselor at Princeton Theological Seminary, President James I. McCord announced this week. Obituaries

Louis P. Zapalac, 49, of Skillman, died July 6 in Belle Mead. He was a salesman of agricultura products.

He was found collapsed in his car on the side of Route 13 in Somerset County. The car had swerved out of control and had come to rest on a bridge embankment.

Mr. Zapalac, who was dead on arrival at Somerset County Hospital, had no visible external injuries. The car had sustained little damage, and the engine was still running when the accident was discovered. An autopsy performed to determine the cause of death was inconclusive.

Born in Waco, Texas, he was graduated with honors from Texas A & M University in 1945. A captain in the Army's Quartermaster Corps, he received five decorations for service in World War II.

He moved to Skillman nine years ago, and was associated for 23 years with American Cynnamid Co. His most recent position was with Rumco Inc. as an account executive. He was a member of St. Paul's Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Dorothy S. Zapalac; two sons, Thomas of Houston and James; and a daughter, Mary.

Interment was in Hallettsville, Texas.

Mrs. Alice Atwood Williams, 88, of 7 Welded Drive, Pennington, died July 19 in Trenton. She was an artist and former college art teacher.

Born in Darien, Georgia, she lived for the past three years at the home of her son, Dr. Robert H. Williams.

She studied art at the Ringling Museum of Art, the New York Institute of Fine Art and the Sorbonne in Paris. She earned a B.A. degree in art from the University of Chicago, and an M.A. from Columbia University.

She taught art in colleges in the South and in Hawaii, and also exhibited her own work in those areas.

Also surviving are another son, James B. Williams of York, Pa.; one sister, Mrs. Rosalie Schmidt of Darien, Georgia; and two grandchildren.

The funeral was in Brunswick, Georgia. Interment was in St. Andrew's Cemetery in Darien.

Mrs. Cora B. Higgins, 91, of Spring Hill Road, Skillman, died July 17 in a nursing home in Langhorne, Pa. She was a former organist at the Zion Church.

She lived 60 years in the Skillman area and was the widow of Edgar W. Higgins.

Survivors include a half-brother, Alfred Baldwin of Trenton; and a nice and a nephew.

The funeral was in Hopewell. Interment was in Highland Cemetery.

Mrs. Rose J. Cahill of Surf City died July 19 in Morven, the Governor's official residence. She was the mother of Governor William T. Cahill.

Born in Philadelphia, she had been staying at Morven for several weeks. Her husband, William P. Cahill, died in 1950.

In addition to the Governor, survivors include eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A requiem mass was offered in St. Thomas Roman Catholic Church in Surf City. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Pennsauken.

Contributions may be made to the St. Francis Community Center in Brant Beach, an organization in which Mrs. Cahill had been active.

Carrie S. DeHart, 82, of Harlingen Road, Belle Mead, died July 23 in Princeton Medical Center. A resident of Belle Mead for the past half century, she was born in Somerville.

Widow of Sidney I. DeHart, she is survived by two sons, John and Ralph, both of Belle Mead; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Holbrook of Rosemont and Mrs. William Flower of Neshanic Station; 11 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. The funeral was held at the Griggstown Reformed Church, of which she was a member, the Rev. Lee Crandall officiating.

Burial was in Griggstown Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Griggstown Church Memorial Fund.

Mrs. Elizabeth Canney Walker, 1517 Genesee Street, Trenton, died July 23 in a nursing home. A native of New Brunswick, she had also lived in Princeton Junction, where she was a member of the fire company auxiliary.

Widow of John T. Walker, she is survived by two sons, John J. of Red Bank and George E. of Yardville; two daughters, Mrs. Norman McCue, with whom she lived, and Mrs. John E. Weber of Lambertville; 14 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

port promptly to Congress why he has taken such action. There is general agreement on this reporting requirement.

Sharp disagreement developed, however, over the provision requiring the President to withdraw troops already committed to combat if the Congress within 120 days has not either declared war or specifically authorized the commitment of troops. I feel it most unwise for Congress to seek, by its inaction, to force the President to stop a course of action which he considers vital to the national interest.

I would guess, furthermore, that it is probably unconstitutional to attempt to deny a President the authority which by implication he possesses as Commander in Chief, authority which even the language of the resolution tacitly recognizes the President has for the 120 day period.

Hearings have also been continuing in subcommittee on troop levels in Europe. Nearly all witnesses have testified to the unwisdom of a unilateral withdrawal of American forces — particularly in view of the upcoming East-West talks on mutual reductions scheduled for the fall. In addition, the Europe subcommittee last week reopened hearings on the Navy's decision to "homeport" elements of the Sixth Fleet in Greece.

Some members still do not agree with the decision to choose Athens as the "homeporting" site. Admiral Zumwalt, the outspoken Chief of Naval Operations, engaged in a sharp exchange of views on this subject with the subcommittee Chairman, Rep. Rosenthal. The next witness will be from the State Department, Rodger Davies, Deputy Assistant Secretary for the Near East.

If you have a large or growing family, make sure the home you buy has enough space for everyone. Size up your family's needs for they may also have ideas about the sort of home they would like. A new house may provide the newest construction materials so that upkeep is less expensive, which is important when your family is just beginning. On the other hand, an older home is sometimes apt to be larger, somewhat less expensive to buy. Either way let our office assist you in making that important decision and purchase!

Rely on those at WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq., Princeton (924-0095), Pennington (737-3300) and W. Windsor (799-1100). Complete real estate assistance. Current listings . . . many excellent values. Assortment of architectural design.

HELPFUL HINT: In a settled neighborhood property taxes are apt to be more stable.

WHERE . . .

WHERE ELSE . . .

But at COUNTRY ANTIQUES

can you find . . .

18th century Mammy bench. It rocks, has black paint which is not original, beautifully constructed.

A large deacon's bench strong, wide, long. Wonderful piece of thick curved wood in seat.

A Wedgwood plate undoubtedly 18th century creamware.

Fresh dresses from the West. Long, light cottons. Nothing black among the collection. (Will go fast!)

Books illustrated Kate Greenway, Jesse Wilcox Smith, Arthur Rackham and Maxwell Parrish. Several firsts among the assortment.

Six simple rabbit-eared chairs of maple. Early rushing in seats. New book on Shaker furniture depicts exactly what we have, the book reasons there is a strong possibility of being Shaker. More important than attribution, they are attractive, light and reasonable and good for informal dining.

Lots of fabulous lace. A really superior collection at unglamorous prices! We don't measure, we estimate!
